Alcina formed at the close 2005, in Nashville, TN. With their catchy metal-core sound similar to Haste The Day, August Burns Red, and The Showdown, they immediately began building a solid hometown fan base, drawing hundreds of kids to many shows. By the summer of 2006 they self-produced an EP and began touring in the southeast, eastcoast, and midwest. After playing generator stages at Cornerstone Festival, they started receiving label attention. Just several months later they announced their signing to Holdfast Records in front of 400+ screaming fans in Nashville. Their 8-track EP was recorded in November 2006 at NME Studios in Nashville, TN. In January, Alcina's hometown cd release show brought a soldout audience of over 700 kids, one of the largest local hardcore shows RCKTWN Music Venue has ever had. Holdfast Records is a subsidiary of Uprise Zine, a Christian heavy music and skateboarding magazine that is distributed nationally through sponsored tours.
